CONSERVATORY BRINGS MANY

A NUMBER OF STUDENTS COME HERE FOR MUSIC ALONE.

IN FOUR DEPARTMENTS

Several Towns Represented in Enrollment in Piano, Voice, Stringed, and Other Instruments.

The Conservatory of Music of the State Teachers College is attracting to Maryville a number of students who are not enrolled in any other college courses, it is shown by a check of enrollment figures.

The Conservatory is divided into four sections, separate but somewhat connected with the department of public school music, a distinct collegiate course. The entire Conservatory is under the direction of Charles R. Gardner, who also is the head of the public school music department of the College.

Thomas H. Annett, head of the piano department, is on a leave of absence for the summer, and his place is being filled by William S. Naylor, regularly a member of the faculty of the Cincinnati Conservatory. For the summer term, in addition to students enrolled in other courses at the College, the following pupils from outside the College and outside Maryville are enrolled in this department.

Donald E. Johnson, Pickering; Miss Hazel Yoder, Rosendale; Miss Elizabeth Mills, Grant City; Miss Margaret Mills, Grant City; Delman Roelofson, Barnard; Miss Eleanor Montgomery, Skidmore; Miss Luella F. Trymire, St. Joseph; Miss Rita Kinsella, Wheeling, Mo.

The children's and beginner's department is another section of the piano division and is under the direction of Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell. The Dunning System is used quite extensively here, and astonishing results are obtained from it. Mrs. Caldwell reports the following out-of-town pupils here for music alone: Miss Audrey Nelson, Ravenwood; Miss Eleanor Sewell, Skidmore; Misses Edwardena Harrison, Margaret Jean Houston, and Mildred Severs, all of Burlington Junction; Miss Frances Mary Doughty, Pickering; Miss Mary Moine Goff, Orrsburg; Miss Arline Wiley, Hopkins; Miss Dorothy Cordell, Quitman; and Miss Anita Aldrich, Elmo.

The department of stringed instruments is under the instruction of Miss Helen Dvorah and has a very large enrollment, both of students in the college and those from out of town. Brother Thomas, Conception Junction; Victor Anderson, Harmony; Miss Maude Kibbe, Grant City; Miss Audrey Nelson, Ravenwood; Miss Ruth Cook, Barnard; Wallace Findley, Graham; Miss Irma Geyer, Skidmore; Miss Wilma Staples, Burlington Junction; Miss Katherine Gray, Skidmore; Miss Ruth Matlock, Clearmont; Miss Geraldine Hunt, Ravenwood; Mrs. F. M. Carpenter, Shenandoah, Ia.; Miss Verda Dittamore, Ravenwood; Miss Maxine Rhodes, Harmony; Eugene Uht, Ravenwood; and Miss Hazel Wygal, Ravenwood; are all taking work with Miss Dvorak.

Another of the popular divisions of the Conservatory is the voice department. Bernhardt Bronson, head of the department, reports the following pupils from out of Maryville this term: Miss Hazel Yoder, Rosendale; Mrs. T. M. Walton, Pickering; Miss Eleanor Montgomery, Skidmore; Misses Eleanor and Lenora Sewell, Skidmore; Miss Eleanor Shunk, Ravenwood; Miss Katherine Gray, Skidmore; Vernon J. Barrett, Hopkins; and Delman Roelofson, Barnard.

H. O. Hickernell, who has charge if instruction in all wood-wind and brass instruments, also directs the college orchestra and college band, organizations which furnish music for different occasions throughout the year. The following persons come from out of Maryville for instruction in this department: Lavelle Hilsabeck, Graham; Byron Linville, Skidmore; Marshall Ford, Wilcox; Sherman Ware, Burlington Junction; Maurice Severs, Burlington Junction; Delman Roelofson, Barnard; Lester Hall, Wilcox; Richard Barrett, Hopkins; and Miss Virginia Morgan, Skidmore.

Miss Davison, who is a member of the auxiliary council, will attend a meeting of the council at Hotel Madison, Jefferson City, Thursday night. It is possible that other persons from Maryville will attend also. Mrs. R. L. McDougal, Mrs. Mary Gault and Miss Esther Gile are considering the trip.

SCHOOL CASE IS APPEALED

SKIDMORE INJUNCTION GOES TO SUPREME COURT.

A VICTORY FOR BOARD

Judge Dawson Dismisses Temporary Writ, But Election Must Await Final Decision.

Proponents of a new school building in Skidmore yesterday won out in the third step in their prolonged fight to vote bonds, when Judge John M. Dawson dismissed a temporary injunction to prevent the detaching of a portion of the Consolidated District No. 136.

But the school district must "Sit tight" and go on the way it has for for the last year until the case is finally acted upon by the State Supreme Court. Fred Harvey and Judge A. M. Tibbels, of Mound City, upon the court findings for the defendants—the Skidmore school board, the board of arbitrators and the county superintendent of schools—filed a motion for a rehearing, which was denied, and then filed application for an appeal, which the court approved.

The appeal, which must be accompained by a $1,500 bond, acts as a "supersedeas," which continues the temporary injunction in force until the highest court of the State makes final decision. No election to vote upon a bond issue can take place, and school taxes, extended in the detached district, will not be collected until the supreme court determines whether Judge Dawson's decision shall stand.

The action in circuit court here was the next to the last step in the fight by what have been called two "factions" in the Skidmore district. One faction has proposed the issuance of $75,000 bonds to build a new building there. The other faction, or "opposition," has fought the voting of school bonds, some giving for their reasons that the ward schools should be resumed in the territory voted out.

Judge Deplores Antagonism

Judge Dawson, in giving his decision, said he wished that all of the people interested in the Skidmore schools could have been present yesterday and heard the arguments by the attorneys for the petitioners, who were six Skidmore taxpayers, and by Randall Wilson of Bethany and L. C. Cook, attorneys for the school board.

School fights are "bad affairs," the court said, and he wished the residents of the school district might have been present in court so he could have given them some "fatherly advice." He said the people there should "get together and in a friendly fashion discuss the school problems and try to iron it out among themselves."

According to the testimony given in the injunction hearing, the Skidmore school district was organized about five years ago, including the town of Skidmore and nine rural districts.

Since the organization of the district, elections have been held at four different times to dissolve the district and four bond elections were held last year and one this year in an attempt to issue bonds for a new building.

The last bond election was February 26. It was defeated. Then came the election, April 5, when the territory, about 1,600 acres, including the Liberty district, south and east of Skidmore was voted out. It was proposed the detached district should go to Graham. Graham Consolidated district voted against the acceptance, 91 to 2.

Immediately the Skidmore school board appealed to the county superintendent, Leslie G. Somerville. He appointed a board of arbitration, consisting of Ernest Wray, Roy Lippman,

NEW PIANIST TO BE HEARD

CONSERVATORY INSTRUCTOR GIVES RECITAL TOMORROW.

HERE FROM CINCINNATI

William S. Naylor, Taking Thomas Annett's Place for Summer, Known Also as Composer.

William S. Naylor, who is filling Thomas H. Annet's place as head of the piano department of the Conservatory of Music, while Mr. Annett is on a leave of absence for the summer, will be heard by the students of the College in a recital tomorrow at the weekly assembly. This will be Mr. Naylor's first appearance in recital here.

Mr. Naylor began his piano study in Dayton, Ohio, his home city. After he finished his high school work there, he went to the Cincinnati Conservatory and began at once to study with Madame Marguerite Melville Lisznievska, a disciple of the famous piano teacher Leschetitsky. He studied composition with Dr. George Leighton, head of the theory department at the Cincinnati Conservatory. Mr. Naylor has taken his collegiate diploma in piano frim the Artist's Division of the Conservatory and holds the degree of Bacheior of Music and Master of Music, and in addition to his academic and applied work, he has had considerable success as a composer. His "Quientet" in modern style for strings and clarinet, was quite enthusiastically received in Cincinnati last year. Mr. Naylor is also known as a composer of several songs and anthems which have been very successfully sung.

For two years he was head of the Extension Department of the Conservatory at St. Mary's of the Springs at Columbus, Ohio. He is now one of Madam Lisznievska's assistants at the Cincinnati Conservatory and an instructor in Harmony. Last year Mr. Naylor was chorus master of the Conservatory Chorus, and this coming year he will continue as such and also be assistant conductor of the Conservatory Orchestra.

On his program tomorrow, Mr. Naylor will play the "Polonaise in C sharp Minor," (Chopin). The polonaise is a stately court march written in three-fourths time and used very frequently at the coronation of kings. Chopin is famous for his polonaises. Mr. Naylor will play the "Berceuse" (Chopin). The "Berceuse" has been described as the "treatment by an inspired master of a very simple melody of a few notes, accompanied by a bass which is practically unchanging throughout the entire piece." He will play besides the Chopin group, "Nocturne" by the modernist, Debussy and "Geschihten aus dem Winer Wald" (Straus-Schiitt).

In commenting upon Mr. Annett's work, Mr. Naylor said, "I am very well pleased. The piano pupils here show careful and excellent training and I enjoy working with them." He will return to Cincinnati at the close of the summer quarter.

To Put New Front in Store Building

Interior of Former D. R. Eversole Location Also to Have Extensive Improvements.

The store building formerly occupied by the Eversole Store is to have a new front and considerable interior improvement, Charles Jensen, trustee, said today.

The contract for the work has been let to a local contractor and work will start at once.

The inside repairs, Mr. Jensen said, will be made to suit a tenant. He declined to say whether a tenant had been obtained. The building is now idle.

The new front will include attractive display windows.

Mrs. J. Fred Swann and daughter, Helen, returned to their home in St. Joseph yesterday morning after a week end visit with the former's brother and sister, Everett Moore and Mrs. Nettie Warren.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bagley of Kansas City spent the week end in Maryville with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Young.

Mrs. F. J. Reynolds and daughter went to Kansas City Sunday morning for a week's visit with relatives and friends.

WAR VETERAN AND A FLOOD REFUGEE WED

Levi J. Allen, 82, and Amanda Ellen Hensel, 65, Both of Hopkins, Are Married Here.

A romance which started this spring at Hopkins between a Civil War Veteran and an elderly woman, a refugee from the flooded district of Mississippi, culminated this morning when they were married here by Judge Jesse F. Robertson, probate judge.

Levi J. Allen, age 82, and Amanda Ellen Hensel, age 65, giving their addresses as Hopkins, were the contracting parties. They secured their marriage license from J. N. Geyer, deputy recorder.

Both have been married before, according to information from Hopkins. The bride came to Hopkins recently with her children from the inundated area of Mississippi.

BYRD READY TO HOP OFF

PARIS TO BE GOAL OF THIRD TRANSATLANTIC FLIER.

PLANE PASSES TESTS

Reports of a "Round Trip" Flight Not Authorized, He Says.—Levine Threatened by Attachment.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 14.—While New York still gasps for breath after its Lindbergh celebration, Commander Richard Byrd announced today he would leave for Paris as soon as weather conditions are favorable.

His plane has passed all the rigid tests and needs only to be provisioned and fueled to be ready for its flight, Byrd said.

Complete reports on Atlantic weather are now being furnished Byrd by the weather bureau in New York.

Byrd said he had not authorized a widely circulated rumor that he planned to fly to Paris, stop twelve to twenty-four hours and then fly back.

Levine Trouble Settled.

Berlin, June 14.—Mutual apologies and a cash settlement today chased the shadow of a legal attachment from the Bellanca monoplane in which Chamberlin and Levine made a non-stop record.

Dr. Julius Puppe, a German physician, declared that Levine owed him about $9,000. He attempted to have a writ of attachment served on the plane. Representatives of Levine and the physician met today and a cash settlement and mutual apologies resulted in the withdrawal of the attachment.

German officials were quick to censure the judge who had given the attachment, on the ground that it might have led to ill feeling between the United States and Germany.

July 4 Tournament Planned for Golfers

Qualifying Scores at Country Club Must Be In by Sunday, June 19.

A large golf tournament in which all members of the Maryville Country Club may participate was announced today by the tournament committee. The tournament will end July 4.

There are sure to be two flights, the President's and the Vice-President's, and if the number of entries warrants it, a Secretary's flight will be added.

Everyone entering must turn in his qualifying medal score by Sunday, June 19, to Colonel R. G. Allan at the clubhouse. This is necessary because the tournament will begin a week or ten days before the Fourth, and only the semi-finals and finals will be played on that day. The sponsors of the tournament are very anxious that many entries be made.

"We should have at least eighty or eighty-five men entered in this tournament," said Ed Condon, speaking for the committee.

New Radio Lengths in Effect Tomorrow

Washington, June 14.—New frequency and power allocations for all radio stations ordered by the federal radio commission go into effect tomorrow, it was announced by the commission today.

Stations failing to keep within their limits will lose their broadcasting license, the commission said.

BUS RULES TO BE DRAWN UP

OPERATORS OF LINES MEET COMMISSION TOMORROW.

MUST HAVE LICENSES

Tentative Draft of Regulations Provides for Routes, Schedules, Fares and Safety Measures.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 14.—A conference between representatives of motor bus companies and lines operating in and through Missouri and the state public service commission is to be held at the capitol tomorrow for the purpose of discussing the proposed regulations under the new Missouri motor bus law.

The commission will have charge of administering the new bus law, whic goes into effect July 3, and Edwin S. Austing, Republican, former secretary of the state highway commission is scheduled to head the new department in the commission.

A tentative draft of the regulations has been prepared and will be considered at the meeting here tomorrow. Provisions are to be made for the type of busses and equipment to be used, financial conditions of companies, liability bonds, and requirements as to routes, schedules, fares and safety measures will be stipulated, together with the license fees to be paid.

Bus companies desiring to operate busses over certain routes will have to obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity. It will be discretionary with the commission whether more than one line shall operate over a given route.

Each company will have to maintain the required type of service, or its certificate will be revoked. After being licensed, no company can discontinue service without permission from the commission.

All busses will be required to stop at all railroads grade crossings and it will be compulsory for each company to test the brakes and lights on a bus before starting on a trip.

Drivers of busses will have to be at least 21 years of age, of good moral character and thoroughly competent to operate a bus.

Another stipulation will be that no bus can carry a greater number of passengers than the number specified by the license issued for it.

BETSY ROSS HOME SCENE OF SERVICES

Philadelphia Pays Respects to Memory of the Flag's Maker.—Observed Throughout Nation.

Philadelphia, June 14.—The Betsy Ross house in lower Arch street, where 150 years ago, the first Stars and Stripes were fashioned, today was the scene of special services, marking the celebration of Flag Day.

Governors of forty states have issued proclamations for the day's observance throughout the nation.

Here, in the tiny, two-story dwelling is one of the country's shrines. Following services at the Betsy Ross home, exercises were held at the grave of Betsy Ross.

Citizens of Maryville and vicinity were urged today by Clun Price, exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, to attend the public Flag Day exercises to be held at the Elks clubhouse tonight. Features will be a history of the flag by Fred Wolfers, local attorney, assisted by Paschal Monk, Vernon Barrett and William S. Naylor of the State Teachers College; music by the College band; and an address by Uel W. Lamkin.

Negro Convict Is Stabbed to Death

Prisoner Who Helped Guards Quell Break Last October Quarrels With Fellow Inmate.

Jefferson City, June 14.—Ollie Cooper, negro convict pardoned from the state penitentiary last October for aiding guards during an attempted jail break, only to be returned for a six-year term in March, was stabbed to death today by Reuben Bobbits, another negro, serving a life sentence for murder.

Cooper and Bobbits were confined in the tubercular ward of the penitentiary. The cause of their fight was not known.

Prison officials said it had nothing to do with Cooper's assistance to guards at the time of the escape.

Mass Executions Are Reported in Russia

Ten Rumanian Spies Sentenced to Death—Many Others Rumored as Result of Note to Poland.

London, June 14.—The Warsaw correspondent of the Daily Express today said mass executions have been reported from all parts of Russia. One of the reports said twenty had been shot at Vladivostock, and in another province that sixteen had been killed.

The correspondent said that the Soviet note to Poland had created a tense situation.

Moscow, June 14.—Ten Rumanian spies have been sentenced to death, two to ten years imprisonment and a large number acquitted it was revealed today.

Confirmation of rumors circulating regarding the wholesale executions in various parts of Soviet Russia was impossible today.

It appeared there had been many executions in addition to those announced but there is no evidence of how widespread in the provinces the executions will be.

LINDBERGH IN NEW PLEDGE

WILL DEVOTE LIFE TO AVIATION, HE SAYS AGAIN.

WILL TOUR COUNTRY

His Trip, However, Will Not Be for Personal Gain, He Emphasizes.—St. Louis Remains Home.

New York, June 14.—Charles Lindbergh today renewed his pledge to devote his life to the development of aviation.

Resting in his New York apartment, Lindbergh talked to newspaper men, discussing his future plans. He said that St. Louis was his home and he had no plans which involved leaving that city for any other address.

He declared he was interested in the commercial and military development of aviation and planned to devote himself entirely to furthering it.

He revealed that when the receptions are over he proposes to make a tour of the country with his plane, but specified the tour would be solely in the interests of aviation.

Mrs. Lindbergh, like her son, insisted that the fame which has come to the family would not change her life. She said she had signed her contract to teach again next year in Cass Technical High School in Detroit.

Lindbergh arose early this morning and went to Mitchel and Curtis fields to see his old friends and mechanics.

After he returned from the field, it was announced that the review of the 100,000 school children at Central Park was called off because of rain and a luncheon by the Newspaper Club of New York was arranged as a substitute.

Lindbergh, however, disappeared at noon today and did not show up at the Newspaper luncheon. He went to Curtiss field for a short trip in the air and from there to the home of Frank Russell, vice-president of the Wright Aeronautical Co., for lunch. It was Russel's company that built the motor for Lindbergh's plane.

Mrs. Lindbergh during the afternoon went to Columbia University, where she visited professors of chemistry that she had studied under in her student days.

TELLS NEEDS OF AMERICA

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE SPEAKS AT HAMMOND, IND., DEDICATION

URGES MORE RELIGION

Education, Crime Suppression, Voting, and More Work for Unskilled His Other Recommendations.

Rob Roy Speaks for Him.

Aboard Presidential Special Train, Garrett, Ind., June 14.—Rob Roy, the White House collie, made the only speeches to the little group of townspeople who gathered about President Coolidge's special train as it rolled westward through Ohio and Indiana today.

At Willard, Ohio, the assembly of a dozen persons called on Mr. Coolidge for a speech. Seriously he went inside and brought out the collie, barking enthusiastically, and told the natives with a smile, "There's a good speech."

Wicker Memorial Park, Hammond, Ind., June 14.—What America needs right now are increased educational advantages, crime suppression, some old-fashioned religious devotion, more work for unskilled labor and patriotism at the ballot box, President Coolidge declared in a speech here today.

Dedicating the Wicker War Memorial, in the heart of this industrial section, with great foundries and mills all around, the President traced the development of the United States in the last few decades and told what he would like to see.

"While we have reached the highest point in material prosperity ever achieved, there is a considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come into full participation of the wealth of the nation.

"Our delinquencies are sufficient to require us to put forth all our efforts toward their elimination."

Mr. Coolidge went deeper into definition of Americanism than he has ever gone before. He reviewed the ideals of the hardy pioneers who founded this midwestern factory world. He traced the industrial development of America and found it "the most wonderful picture of human advancement the world has ever seen."

The fact is shown, the President said, in the whole-hearted welcome given Charles Lindbergh, "when one of her western young men is the first to fly from America to Europe, our country hails him with spontaneous acclaim so genuine as to disclose the true values of our national character."

After his speech, the President returned to the special train which bore him and his party from Washington and resumed his journey to his summer vacation site in the Black Hills of South Dakota.

"Work, Behave, Eat Less," Advises Howe

Omaha, June 14.—Ed Howe, 63 years a Kansas printer, came to the national Editorial Convention here and basked in the admiring glances of 500 newspaper men and women.

"Twenty Minutes of Dam-fool Nonsense" was the title he tacked on his address. Saying he had outlived his usefulness, Howe said his message to the world was "Work hard, behave and eat less."

Howe told of an incident in his early newspaper life when his opposition in Atchison in 1859 attempted to belittle Abraham Lincoln by refusing to give him a personal item in the paper.

Will Rogers Has a Nervous Breakdown

Beverley Hills, Calif., June 14.—A nervous breakdown, believed brought on by an intensive lecture tour, confined Will Rogers, comedian, cowboy, mayor, to his home town today under the care of physicians.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lawrence and baby son, Ronald, left Saturday for Willis, Kan., where they will visit Mr. Lawrence's sister, Mrs. Ben Robinson, and family. Mr. Lawrence is an employe of the Farmers Trust Company and is taking a two-weeks' vacation.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

"KEEP OUT."

A cartoon in the Emporia, Kan., Gazette, entitled "The March of Progress," shows two small boys with home-made fishing rods and a can of bait gazing wistfully at a stream. They are separated from this vision of delight by a stout fence and a row of trees on which are tacked the signs: "No Fishing, This Means You;" "Keep Out. Private Property;" "No Trespassing", and so on down the row.

The disconsolate youngsters are saying, "Aw heck, what's the use?"

Not the automobile itself, but the abuser of the opportunities the automobile makes possible, is to blame for the great increase in the number of such forbidding signs. Many a farmer or other naturally generous citizen owning woodland and pleasant stream has been moved to enclose and protect his treasure because of the people who have used fence posts for firewood, left campfires that destroyed property, scattered rubbish all over the landscape, torn branches from trees, frightened domestic livestock, and generally made nuisances of themselves.

The few who abuse a privilege succeed in having that privilege taken away from themselves and also from many who would have appreciated and used it properly.

BEEFING INTO THE MOVIES.

A visitor to Detroit comments on a custom there of herding people in the lobbies of movie theatres as cattlemen divide up heifers and steers for loading into cattle cars. Instead of holding a waiting audience all together beyond a rope, the waiters are separated into little groups by sets of brass rails, and when satisfied patrons pass out of the show, the girl lets the anxious ones in a few at a time from these little corrals.

The visitor remarks that the scheme may be efficient but does not compliment the crowd.

But isn't comfort and efficiency of more value to a waiting crowd than compliment? And who wouldn't rather be herded like an ox for a little while than to have a jostling crowd walking over his toes and banging into her new hat and smashing the new boutonniere?

ORGANIZING THE HOUSEHOLD.

A stenographer wins a prize in a household column of a daily paper with a suggestion for indexing the notebook. The specific suggestion does not apply to any household activity, but the general idea of using indices in the home does apply.

There sticks in the mind the reply made years ago by a household expert to a complaint that indices and notes were "too much bother." She asked whether it was really more troublesome to write on an index card that John's winter underwear was in the right hand corner of the cedar chest, and Mary's furs in the second drawer of the attic dresser, than it was to hunt through all the trunks, drawers and boxes on the first cold day to find the needed articles.

Under the trained hands of the college woman and the business woman, slowly the household activities begin to assume orderly arrangement.

Rev. Ernest Graham Celebrates Mass

Several Maryville Persons Attend Service at Stanberry.—Father Felix Gives Sermon.

First Mass of the Rev. Ernest Graham, young Nodaway County priest, was celebrated at Stanberry at St. Peter's Church, at 10 o'clock Sunday.

The officers of the mass were: The Rev. Ernest Graham, celebrant; the Rev. Robert Graham, Stanberry, archpriest; the Rev. Thomas Parle, Humboldt, Ia., deacon; the Rev. Leo Ford, Davenport, Ia., sub-deacon; the Rev. John Hausman, Remsen, Ia., master of ceremonies; the Rev. George Towle, Kansas City, crucifer; the Rev. Richard Felix, sermon.

A banquet at noon was served by the women of the parish for the clergy and visiting relatives.

The Rev. Ernest Graham and the Rev. Raymond Auer, who was ordained at the same time and who celebrated his first mass last week, will report for duty in the Omaha diocese next week.

Among the Maryville visitors, friends and relatives who attended Father Ernest's first mass were: Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Parle, Miss Grace Parle and Francis Parle; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Merrigan, Mrs. Elmer Bagby, Miss Anna Laura Merrigan, Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. Charles Barmann, Mrs. Margaret Enis, Lillian Murrin and Raymond Murrin.

Other visiting clergy at the mass were Father Odilo, Conception Junction; Father Ambrose, Clyde; Father Stephen and Father Norbert, Conception College.

The farmers of Macon County have been arranging to plant large crops of soy beans because of the delay in getting in their corn. Soy beans may be planted late and still make a good crop. It has rapidly grown into favor the past few years as its value as a feed crop and a soil enricher is realized. Soy beans have been used for both feed and food in China, Japan and India for the past 5,000 years. They were introduced into the United States a hundred years ago but did not get much attention until during the past twelve years. They make excellent hay, pasture and green fertilizer and, planted with corn, provide a well balanced ration for hogs.

Baseball Scores Say

Schools for Grown-Ups.

Cleveland's plan for a public school building to be devoted largely to adult education starts a movement that should find favor and limitation in any number of communities.

All over this broad land are countless people who have been forced to drop their schooling early in life and to go work. Arrived at middle age, they realize that they have missed something. Entering high school with youngsters is not to their liking, and their requirements also could not be met in the average high school course.

Here it is that the adult school will fill the gap. It will not compete with colleges or universities or even the junior colleges. Many of the people who will find that the adult school fills their needs will be people far from ignorant. Having worked at any trade for a number of years is in itself an education of a sort. It is a school of practical experience, and upon this experience the adult school can no doubt add the theory necessary to a complete liberal education.

The whole program of such schools cannot be made until the experiment is tried. As the work goes on it will develop. It is possible that such schools will be open at all hours of the day and night. Cleveland's pioneering, at any rate, should be watched with no small amount of interest by the country at large.—Cape Girardeau S. E. Missourian.

Slow Way to Raise Money.

Just to do something out of the ordinary, the Jefferson City Lions Club is sponsoring a turtle race at a park there within the next few weeks. Proceeds will be applied on a fund to purchase an athletic field for Jefferson City school children. By the time the race is finished, maybe the children will be too old for an athletic field.—Kansas City Star.

Roosevelt on Religious Freedom.

(New York World)

"Where Freedom Faltes," a book just published by Charles Scribner's Sons, and written by Laurence Lyon, a Canadian, who has been a member of the British Parliament, cites a little known Roosevelt letter on the matter of religious freedom and the presidency.

The author of this comment on American life, who is brough to the topic of Roosevelt's letters after he refers to Governor Alfred E. Smith, says:

"To a correspondent who wrote him about some alleged connection of Mr. Taft, then a presidential candidate, with the Roman Catholic church, Roosevelt replied:

"THE WHITE HOUSE.
Washington, Oct., 16, 1908.

"My dear Mr.——

"I thank you for your letter of the 14th instant. If asked by Mr. Taft, I should most emphatically advise against his making any declaration as to his religious belief such as your friend suggests. If there is one thing for which we stand in this country, it is for complete religious freedom and for the right of every man to worship his Creator as his conscience dictates. It is an emphatic negation of this right to cross-examine a man on his religious views before being willing to support him for office. Is he a good man and is he fit for the office? These are the questions which there is a right to ask, and to both of these in Mr. Taft's case the answer must be in the affirmative.

"In my own cabinet there are at present Catholic, protestant and Jew—the Protestants being of various denominations. I am incapable of discriminating between them or judging any one of them save as to the way in which he performs his public duties. The rule of conduct applicable to Catholic, Protestant and Jew as regards lesser offices is just as applicable as regards the presidency.

No Politics in the Lindbergh Reception

Coolidge Did Only What the Nation Wanted Him to Do, Writer Declares.—Not "Thrilled."

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.

Washington, June 14.—One of the most astonishing things about life in Washington is the fact that no man in public life can ever perform a gracious or meritorious act without hearing all the smarties brand it as inspired by politics. The trouble is, of course, that more often than not the smarties are dead right.

At any rate, it seems rather a shame that this stuff couldn't have been kept out of the picture with Lindbergh's return and triumphal reception.

Instead, many of the anti-administration folk long since began to voice the suspicion that President Coolidge had finally decided to take care of Lindbergh's home-coming lest he be nosed out of some important publicity and national good will by Governor Al Smith of New York, who might otherwise have done the honors in company with Tammany's mayor, little Jimmy Walker.

Somehow, Calvin Coolidge's reputation as a good politician simply won't let his ill-wishers keep off his neck whenever he speaks or acts.

On the other hand, one correspondent here wrote seriously the other day that no man in the United States was more excited and thrilled over Lindbergh's feat than the president. This was quite absurd, for Mr. Coolidge hasn't been genuinely excited over anything whatever in recent years.

The fact that stands out just now is that Mr. Coolidge has done the correct thing by Lindbergh and has done just what the country wanted him to do. More could hardly be asked.

The court action which threatens to complicate the activities of the Federal Radio Commission was predicted by Congressman Sol Bloom of New York in a recent conversation. Bloom expressed the belief that the courts would decide broadcasting to be a matter for state regulation and that the radio law, based on the idea that broadcasting was interstate commerce, would be cast out because in broadcasting there is no buying and selling. Bloom said he was in thorough sympathy with the commission's work, but feared that it had no right to interfere in broadcasting unless it was really interstate commerce.

Coming Down Worst, Declares Balloonist

Capt. H. C. Gray, Breaker of All Altitude Records, Tells of Trip Eight Miles Up.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 14.—It isn't so much the going up that hurts as it is the coming down, Captain Hawthorne C. Gray, who recently ascended 42,370 feet in a balloon from Scott Field, and broke all existing altitude records for all types of aircraft, said here in describing his trip eight miles into the air.

As one might relate an automobile trip, Captain Gray spoke of going to the greatest heights ever reached by man, and from a temperature of 64 degrees above zero on the ground to a bitter cold of 65 degrees below at the peak of his ascent. The atmospheric pressure in the high regions the captain explored is in the neighborhood of two pounds to the square inch, as compared to the ordinary sea level pressure of approximately 15 pounds. When a deep sea monster is released from its under water environment of high pressure to ordinary atmospheric pressure, it messes things up by bursting. The same thing would have happened to Captain Gray had he not decided to come down when he had toppled the existing altitude records, until then held by a Frenchman.

But going up was a picnic compared to coming down, according to the balloonist's description of the descent. The normal behavior of a balloon on the down stretch is to form a parachute of itself. This is permitted by the fact that the expanding hydrogen on the ascent escapes through an aperture on the bottom of the bag, called the appendix. The gas contracts again on the downward flight and allows the flabby bag to be blown taut into parachute form by the wind pressure.

According to Gray, the lines operating the bottom of the balloon became tangled in the rigging and he descended at the rate of 1,400 feet a minute, or about twice as fast as it is possible to come down and retain one's health. As a climax to the flight the captain had to step off his craft at the height of 8,000 feet and take a parachute ride to the ground.

Captain Gray cleared up a question that is frequently asked, namely, what becomes of the ballast thrown out of balloons? He cited an editorial that appeared in a St. Louis newspaper at the time of his flight, in which the writer decried the practice of balloon ascensions in a crowded territory such as this, on the ground that people below would be socked on the head with the ballast unloaded by the balloonists. The captain explained that objects thrown from a balloon would no more than dent one's derby, because they were equipped with special baby parachutes that let them down slowly.

Felt Combined With Lace in Summer Hat

Hedda Hoyt Tells of Newest Idea in Millinery.—Hatpins Honor Lindbergh.

By HEDDA HOYT
(United Press Fashion Editor)

New York, June 14.—The woman who likes felt hats for all-round-season wear, but who feels the urge of summery lace models may combine felt and lace in one way or another. For instance, there's the Mantilla hat, which reflects the Spanish idea in millinery. This is a black felt sailor trimmed with black mantilla lace which hangs over the brim about the face in a very fascinating manner. The brim is slightly under medium width.

Then, too, there are felt hats of wide-brimmed type with lace insets through the brim. Sometimes the lace is set in rows through the brim, giving a transparent effect. Crowns of most felt-and-lace models are made of felt, as it is the brim which features lace-trimming. An attractive model for the matron has a close-fitting felt crown with an upturned cuff of lace.

Whether summer dress shall be plain or printed is merely a matter of individual choice since either style is accentuated. Personally, I believe that the printed vogue is best when confined to summer chiffon frocks. For sports wear, plain material seem just a bit smarter.

For those who like novel millinery trimmings I suggest the new hatpins shaped like aeroplanes and aviator wings, which have been made in honor of the flight of Captain Lindbergh. Small aeroplanes of enamel or brilliants are quite attractive, although, if choosing, I should prefer the wings of rhinestones, either single or double, which can be worn at the front of the felt sports hat or upon the pocket or shoulder of the sports dress.

Bracelets of cheaper type this season are so attractive that almost everyone is including gold-dipped types among their accessories. A pair of wide gold-dipped band bracelets with buckle clasps costs but from $3 to $5, and these are most attractive when worn over the sleeve of the sports dress.

Hail Does $1,000,000 Damage at St. Louis

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.—A complete check-up of damage done to Shaw's Garden here by the recent hail storm revealed a loss of approximately $1,000,000, according to George Pring, horticulturist in charge.

The 25 minute storm, which shattered four-fifths of the glass on the greenhouses resulted in irreparable damage to hundreds of rare varieties of ferns and other plants, some of them having been under cultivation for 16 years. Because of the danger of falling glass, workers have been forbidden to enter to water the remaining plants, and a large number of plants have since withered according to Pring.

The greater portion of the glass broken out by the hail will be replaced by galvanized metal sheets, greatly reducing the area of glass, Pring said.

Meetings by Religious Groups Well Attended

Much Interest Is Shown by College Students in Both Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

The religious organizations at the State Teachers College met at the activity hour this morning. There seems to be a great deal of interest taken in the organizations this quarter, and the officers of each are very well pleased.

At the meeting of the Y. W. C. A., eighty-five girls were present. The meeting opened with an explanation of a contest which is to last throughout the summer. The organization is divided into two groups, the Reds, lead by Miss Pauline Ringgold, and the Blues, led by Miss Jewell Gose. The contest is to gain a larger membership, and the losing side is to entertain the winners. Miss Opal Spaun led group singing, which was followed by a violin solo by Miss Bernice Ewing. Miss Dorothy England talked on "Ideals for Girls," and gave the following qualifications for an ideal girl: Enthusiasm, courtesy, cheerfulness, kindness, dependability, attractiveness for Christ, unselfishness, and an interest in spiritual as well as material things.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting was opened by group singing, which was followed by devotions led by Mr. Curnutt. Miss Christine Goff sang "What Is There Hid in the Heart of a Rose," and an encore. Merle Seleeman, a member of the College faculty, gave a short talk in which he read an article on religion by John E. Williams. At the conclusion of the article Mr. Seleeman said, "Religion is something we can use every day. Social progress in the future will be based on the application of religious principles in business." G. T. Carroll was the leader.

Graham Daily Bible School Closes Friday

Program Is Given at Christian Church.—Pupils and Parents Have Basket Dinner Preceding Day.

The Graham Daily Vacation Bible school closed last Friday with a program at the Christian Church. On Thursday the pupils and their parents enjoyed a basket dinner at the High School building.

The memory work done by the children was exceptionally good. Other interesting features of the program were a dramatization of the birth and childhood of Jesus by the beginners and primary classes and a game of Bible baseball by the juniors and intermediates. Teachers in the school were Mrs. Ralph Scott, Mrs. W. E. Freytag, Misses Wilma Schmidt and Jean Harvey. Mrs. Scott was the superintendent.

The Rev. Beryl McKowen gave the habit talks each day. There was quite a nice display of hand work by the primary and beginners, but the craftwork was not emphasized this year. The time usually devoted to it in the junior and intermediate classes was given to nature study and some interesting bird books were made by the intermediates, and log books were made by the juniors as the studied "America for Christ."

Walter Mutz and A. S. Watson, to hold a hearing to decide to which district the ousted territory should go. The arbitrators decided it should be transferred to Graham.

Sixth Election Called.

Notices were then posted for a sixth bond election at Skidmore, to be held May 28. The plaintiffs for an injunction, Vernon E. Ward, J. F. Kellogg, William Taylor, Fred M. Barrett, John R. Barrett and Elmer Owens, then sought relief in the courts, and asked for a temporary injunction, which was granted and a hearing set to decide whether it should be made permanent.

Fraud on the part of the defendants, in that they detached a portion of the district to deprive some fifty persons of their votes, which would enable a successful bond election, of failure of the clerk of the Graham school board to follow the law in detail in posting notices for an election to vote upon detaching the ousted territory, and faulty election notices at Skidmore for the May 28 bond issue, were alleged by the petitioners.

Each allegation was denied by the defendants, who claimed they followed the law in detail. The supreme court is the highest and final deciding body in the case.

The members of the Skidmore school board, Dr. J. E. Pierpoint, Halfred Botkin, M. A. Sewell, Earl Stevenson, Frank I. Goslee, J. L. Teason, W. G. Reynolds, secretary of the board; Robert Wells, W. F. Barber and Mark T. Loucks, judges of a special school election to be held at Skidmore; F. E. Lyle, T. M. Acklin, G. A. Birch, T. S. Hayzlett and Sanford Kaufman, members of the Graham school board, Clyde Long, secretary; the board of arbitration and superintendent of schools, were named as defendants.

A Kosher Dining Room at Excelsior Springs

Missouri Health Resort Makes Provision for Orthodox Jews.—Rules Strict About What to Eat.

George Sanford of the Sanford House who leased his dining room several weeks ago to a group of Jewish people of Kansas City, states that the volume of business is constantly growing, and that reservations are being made by Jewish people from all parts of the country who are coming here this summer. Previously many Jews have remained away from Excelsior Springs because they were unable to procure proper food.

Orthodox Jews are extremely particular about their eating. It is well known that strict Jews eat no pork, nor any food cooked in lard. Only goose and chicken fats are used in the preparation of foods. They will under no circumstances eat their supper and breakfasts from the same set of dishes used for dinner. They will eat no fish except those having scales and fins. There must be no salt in the butter, and coffee is served black. Vegetables are extensively used, but each vegetable must be cooked in a separate vessel and meals are served in courses, one thing at a time.

The dining room at the Sanford House is under the supervision of Rabbi Saul Backtein. Under his direction all meats used must be selected and killed according to his directions. Meats are not purchased from an ordinary butcher shop. And this fall when the summer season is over and the dining room is closed for the winter, all dishes, and cooking equipment must be boxed and sealed and untouched until the Rabbi himself breaks the seal in the spring.—Excelsior Springs Standard.

ELECTRICITY A FERTILIZER

ITS VALUE IN FARMING BEING INVESTIGATED.

CLAIM LARGER YIELDS

Farmer Near Warrenton And Others Tell Of Benefits Of Impulses Drawn From Air.

Chicago, Ill., June 14.—The value of atmospheric electricity as an agency for increasing the yield of farm lands is being investigated by a committee of the American Electronic Research Association, it was revealed here today by Dr. E. E. Murphy, chairman of the department of education of the association, in making public a report by the committee.

Observations are being made at the farm of Henry Surber, scientific farmer of Warrenton, Mo., who claims to have increased his crops 20 per cent by using atmospheric electricity as a stimulant. Other farmers of the neighborhood who are using the Surber methods also report an increased yield from their truck gardens and orchards. Surber also reports curing an apple tree of cancerous growth.

Many scientific farmers of France and Germany are utilizing the Surber methods; Dr. Moses Jacobson, a Russian botanist of Camden, N. J., is trying to achieve similar results by exposing seeds to mild X-ray treatment while Lakhovsky, the eminent French scientist, and American scientists are using high frequency currents to kill plant cancer.

While the committee does not endorse Surber's claims, its preliminary report shed considerable light on the use of electrical magnetic impulses and high frequency waves in the stimulation of plant growth.

The report says in part:

"By means of spear-shaped antennae, placed on high poles, electro-magnetic impulses and high frequency waves are captured from the atmosphere and conveyed to a device similar to the thermocouple used to measure temperature in electric furnaces and refrigeration plants. This device, which was invented by Christopleau, the French physicist, discharges the electricity through wires in the ground to the roots of the plants.

"Investigation shows that the device is widely used in France and Germany and has been approved by the head chemist of the Agricultural school of Metz. It has been used with signal success by French wine growers, including the Claret interests who have reported a twenty per cent increase in yield from a "square" of vineyard on which the device was employed.

"An apple tree on Mr. Surber's farm which had not borne fruit for several years because of a cancerous growth on the trunk was treated with the electro-magnetic device and when viewed by the committee was full of blooms and appeared to be healthy.

"The committee believes that Mr. Surber's experiments and the results he claims from them are another indication of the therapeutic value of electro-magnetic currents when controlled and directed into living organisms."

Lindbergh May Join in Continental Race

New York-to-Spokane Air Derby Is Proposed for September 20, With Prizes Totaling $33,250.

Washington, June 14.—Charles A. Lindbergh may race other planes across the continent this fall.

The New-York-Paris flyer has received a special invitation to enter an air derby beginning at New York, September 20 and ending at Spokane, Washington for prizes totaling $33,250 the national aeronautic association has announced.

The derby will precede the national air races Sept. 24 and 25 which have been awarded to Spokane. A second derby will start September from Spokane to San Francisco for a $2,500 prize.

In the New York-Spokane derby the first transcontinental race since the one from New York to San Francisco in 1919, Lindbergh if he enters, might meet former buddies of the air mail pilot service, since they are eligible along with commercial and private fliers while army and navy aviators are barred. Stops must be made at Chicago, St. Paul, Fargo, N. D., and Glendive and Butte, Montana.

Guests at Chandler Home.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Chandler are entertaining the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. H. O. Philp, and her nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Philp and daughters, Martha Ellen and Doris Sue, all of Benton, Ill. The visitors arrived last Friday and are leaving tomorrow. The trip was made by automobile.

THE CLIMAX OF LINDBERGH'S HOMECOMING

The crimax of the home-coming of the one-time Captain, now Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and his official reception at Washington is pictured splendidly here. The photo shows the moment when Lindbergh, just decorated by President Coolidge with the Distinguished Flying Cross, rose to address a great throng at the Washington Monument grounds, Washington, in acknowledgement of the honor paid him. Radio microphones in front of him carried his voice around the United States. At the extreme left of the picture is Postmaster General New, then Secretary Kellogg, then Labor Secretary Davis. Next, in front, are Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. Coolidge, and the president—both the Coolidges applauding vigorously. Between Coolidge and Lindbergh is Commander Byrd, North Pole Flyer. Toward the right, in front, is War Secretary Davis. Seated at the extreme right is John Hays Hammond. There have been few such historic photographs taken before. Also, there have been few Lindberghs! Flown to New York, this picture was rushed to the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by NEA Service.

BILLY EVANS Says

Good Pitching Necessary.

Good pitching is a tremendous asset in the winning of ball games. If you have any doubt on that score, kindly peruse the record of the Chicago White Sox.

When I looked the Chicago club over in the spring at their Texas camp it was composed of a mighty discouraged lot of athletes, who didn't seem to care whether school kept or not.

With the Mostil tragedy of a few weeks previous still haunting the memory of every player, the morale of the club appeared to be entirely shot.

In several games I saw the White Sox play against Texas League teams the club at all times was hard pressed to prove its superiority.

The loss of Johnny Mostil, baseball's greatest outfielder, seemed to be a knockout blow that the club wasn't going to survive.

Handicapped By Outfielders.

Poor work in the outfield is a terrific handicap on the pitching. It looked as if Chicago would suffer in that respect.

In desperation did Manager Ray Schalk seize Alex Metzler of the Athletics, about to be passed back to the Texas League by Connie Mack because of a surplus of veteran outfielders.

To date, Metzler has been the sensation of the American League. He has played such great ball that Johnny Mostil hasn't been missed.

In a measure, much of the chances of the White Sox to continue as a contender demands upon the possibility that Metzler will maintain the Mostil standard of excellence in all departments.

However, to a superlative brand of pitching must go most of the credit for the brilliant play of the Chicago club under Manager Ray Schalk.

Two pitchers, Ted Lyons and Al Thomas, have carried most of the twirling burdens of the club. Valuable assistance has been rendered by Faber, Blankenship and Connally.

Two Big Winners Great Help.

When two pitchers can each win 10 of their first 12 starts it is a great boost for a club that isn't supposed to be going anywhere in particular.

Of the first 31 victories registered by the White Sox Lyons and Thomas turned in 20. That's real pitching. It means that in less than one-third of the schedule each has won 10 games. Traveling at that rate would carry each one over the 30 mark in games won for the season.

It is hardly probable that either of the two will be able to maintain so terrific a pace. However, it is conservative to say that both Lyons and Thomas should win 20 games, possibly 25. If these two twirlers can turn in 50 wins between them Chicago is going to be in the running all the way.

With a pitching staff working smoothly, Manager Schalk has been wise in playing safety first tactics, trying to get a run at a time. The Sox thereby have copped many low score games.

Days Of "Hitless Wonders."

Back in 1906, the Chicago White Sox with five great pitchers in Ed Walsh, Doc White, Frank Smith, Nick Altrock and "Yip" Owens were hard to beat.

In those days the Chicago club was known as the "Hitless Wonders." They couldn't slug but by means of the sacrifice and the steal they would invariably work across just enough runs to win, backed by super pitching.

In many respects the White Sox of this year remind you of the world champions of more than a score of years ago.

On a whole I think this year's club has a better punch than the 1906 aggregation which, after winning the pennant, beat the supposedly invincible Cubs in the world series.

Indians Enter Long Distance Run Today

San Francisco, June 14.—A squad of eight Indian runners, from which four will carry the colors of the Oregon Cavemen in the Redwood Highway Indian Marathon, starting today from San Francisco for Grants Pass, Ore., have been undergoing intensive training for the contest under a special trainer.

The squad comprises husky braves of the Karok tribe, picked from the trapping and hunting country 80 to 160 miles in the interior. The members of the squad are: Thunder Cloud, chief of the tribe; Flying Cloud, Sweek, Fighting Stag, Falcon, White Deer, Rushing Water, and Mad Bull.

Sweek, who is 5 feet 11 inches tall, and weighs 161 pounds, is the tallest and heaviest of the team.

The training camp was on the Klamath River, where the Indians were subjected to a strict daily routine, starting with a 5 a. m. plunge into the river, a two-mile run and a rub-down before breakfast.

The Karok tribe claims that its runners are the only ones who are able to run down a bear or an elk.

Civil War Veteran Dies at a Luncheon

Mexico, Mo., June 14.—Stricken at the Rotary club luncheon table, where he was a guest of that organization, along with other former wearers of the blue and the gray, G. B. Null, 88-year-old Confederate veteran of Mexico, died within a few minutes, shortly after noon Friday, at a room in the Hotel Hoxsey, to which he had been carried.

A native of Warren county, where he was born on Feb. 1, 1839, he was reared near Troy, Mo., serving in the Confederate army, and after a few years residence in St. Louis, moved to Mexico in 1869.

CHAPTER 55

When T. Q. Curtis entered the library ten minutes later, both Mrs. Meadows and Billy, who had answered his summons promptly, greeted him with shocked exclamations.

"I'm not ill, thank you!" T. Q. waved aside their solicitous inquiries with a preemptory hand. But the gray pallor of his gaunt old cheeks and the twitching of his usually firm mouth belied his words. "I must apologize in advance for the distress which this interview is bound to cause you both, but it is necessary that I take you into my confidence, for my own protection," he explained, passing a weary, trembling hand across his eyes.

Mrs. Meadows' hands fluttered over her knitting for a moment, then dropped heavily into her lap. If Billy had been watching her she would have seen a shadow of terror darken the faded brown eyes.

"I need your advice, too," T. Q. said with a ceremonious bow toward Mrs. Meadows. "I think you will believe me when I say that for a year I have tried to fulfill honorably the terms of the agreement I made with the three girls in whose lives and careers I have interested myself."

"Indeed I do, Mr. Curtis," Mrs. Meadows answered. "You have been a father to Nyda, Winnie and Billy. No one could be more distressed than I that Nyda repaid your generosity with gross gratitude—"

"Poor Nyda!" T. Q. interrupted her with a groan. "She is more to be pitied than blamed. I should have realized that I was putting almost irresistible temptation in her way. But it is not Nyda that I wish to speak."

He bowed his head in his hands and sat in silence for a long minute. Billy's heart began to beat with painful rapidity. What had she—and not Winnie—been summoned to this conference with T. Q. Curtis? Could it mean that he was about to announce his decision in that strange, secret contest? That document which Winnie had stolen from his desk to read?

But T. Q. Curtis was speaking again, his voice halting with embarrassment. "Another of my three girls has succumbed to irresistible temptation. I may be a fool, but it had not occurred to me, Mrs. Meadows, that a lovely young girl would be tempted to try to marry me—for my money."

"My dear Mr. Curtis!" Mrs. Meadows' exclamation was freighted with shocked astonishment. Her faded eyes flashed a look of utter contempt upon Billy.

"I am afraid you are jumping to conclusions, Mrs. Meadows," T. Q. said heavily. "Billy is not—the guilty party. I shall be brief. Miss Shelton tricked me into a proposal of marriage this evening, and she took care to have a witness concealed in the room. It was the colored maid, Viola, who accidentally ruined Miss Shelton's scheme by betraying her presence behind the window drapes." He made his humiliating confession in a shamed, low voice.

Billy sank limply back into her chair. What a vile little beast Winnie Shelton was! So that had been her game all along! For months she had courted the old man, cuddling against him like an affectionate kitten, kissing him, trying, by every means in her power, to arouse desire for her in the unsuspecting old man's heart. Oh, it was sickening.

"You will, of course, put her out of your house immediately, Mr. Curtis!" Mrs. Meadows was saying indignantly. "I can't imagine such a thing! The brazen little hussy!"

"Please, Mrs. Meadows!" T. Q. protested. "But I do need advice on how to handle the situation. If I do as you suggest—put her out of my house immediately—there will be a scandal. Oh, Lord!" he groaned, dropping his head into his hands again.

"Mr. Curtis," Billy began diffidently, her heart aching for him, "the year is almost up. Probably no one but a few of your employes at the store will remember the exact date when Winnie and I are expected to leave your home, under the terms of the agreement. Will you let me suggest something?"

"Go ahead child," T. Q. Answered without looking up. "I'm asking for advice."

"Well, then, Mr. Curtis, it is undoubtedly known at the store that Winnie's father has been very ill with pneumonia. She really should have been staying at home with him until he was out of danger. I understand he is much better now, and it seems to me that everyone would consider it the most natural thing in the world if Winnie went home to nurse him until he is able to travel. I know how you must feel—heartsick and terribly disappointed in—in all of us," she stammered, "but I believe you will be happier a year from now if you return good for evil, so far as Winnie is concerned, just as you did for Nyda. Give her a thousand dollars, so that her father can recuperate for a month or two in the mountains, and so that she will have enough to carry her until she gets a position as a private secretary."

"Private secretary!" T. Q. smiled sadly. "The child is probably the world's worst stenographer. She'll never know how to spell 'receive.' But—thanks for the suggestion, my dear. Of course I intended to do something for her, even though I would prefer never to see her again. Well, what's done is done, and it can't be helped," he groaned.

"You still have Billy, Mr. Curtis," Mrs. Meadows reminded him. "A dear good girl who is devoted to you—"

"Please, Mrs. Meadows!" Billy cried, tears of shame stinging her eyes. "I—will you leave me alone for a few minutes with Mr. Curtis? There is something I must say to him, if he will let me."

T. Q. nodded, his eyes narrowing with what Billy thought, with a guilty conscience, must be suspicion. Poor darling! He had every right to be suspicious of any girl that asked to be alone with him now!

Mrs. Meadows rustled indignantly out of the room, and Billy walked slowly to his desk, where she stood, head high and blue eyes sparkling with tears.

"I—I couldn't say what I want to say before anyone else," she began, striving to get a tight grip on her courage. "Mr. Curtis, I want to leave your home today, too. It must be painful for you to see any of us now, and—and it's impossible for me to be happy here. I can't tell you how deeply I appreciate your great kindness to me—" Her voice broke.

"Billy"—T. Q. leaned forward and laid a hand on hers, which was rigidly grasping the edge of the desk—"I want you to stay. There is something I did not intend to tell you just yet, but if you are determined to leave today—"

"Please, Mr. Curtis! Before you—say anything—I've got to make a confession."

"Please, Mr. Curtis, I've got to make a confession."

"A confession?" T. Q. withdrew his hand. "You, too!"

"Yes," she nodded miserably. "Me, too! I'd rather die than tell you, Mr. Curtis, for I—I've learned to love you almost as much as I do my mother since I have been in your home. But—I've got to do it! All three of us—Nyda, Winnie and I—have known for almost a year that you—that you planned to—to adopt one of us as your daughter!"

"I—that explains a great deal, doesn't it?" he asked at last, heavily. "Nyda knew that she had no chance to win. But—why did Winnie spoil her chances before the year was up?"

"She picked the lock of your desk last night and found what must have been an application to the courts for the adoption of—of one of us," Billy explained, the red of shame dyeing her throat and forehead. "I didn't know, when I caught her in the act, what she was doing. I didn't realize until you were telling us just now what she had done, that Winnie had learned that she—she had lost."

"How did you girls learn my plans?" T. Q. asked slowly, his eyes averted.

"I overheard you and Mr. Warburton talking as you passed through the music room on your way to the library. We hadn't been here a month then. I was asleep in a chair drawn up to the window. I'd been practicing. Your voices woke me up. I didn't intend to eavesdrop. I hope you'll believe that!" Her head went higher, her eyes flashed through her tears.

"Your confession is entirely voluntary," T. Q. answered wearily. "I shall believe anything you say. But with a piece of valuable information like that in your hands and yours alone, how did the other girls happen to know?"

"I told them of course!" Billy's voice rang out sharply. "At first I wanted to rush into the library and tell you that I had overheard, but—but I was selfish. I thought that you would give up your plan for having the three of us here for a year. I didn't know what to do. I went home and told Clay—"

"So my son has known all this time!" T. Q. interrupted bitterly. "What a fool he must think his father is!"

"No, he doesn't! He had suspected from the first contest that you were planning just such a move. He tried to keep me from entering the contests and when I'd won on both he tried to keep me from accepting your offer of a year in your home. He—he warned me that it would be hell, and—it has been!" she confessed in a low voice.

"I can see that it must have been," T. Q. conceded, his lips twisting wryly over the words. "Did Clay advise you to tell the other girls?"

"Yes, he did, after I'd assured him that I didn't want anything more than the year. I didn't either! Not then, at any rate!" She did drop her eyes then, for the thought of her own motives in trying to win was almost more than she could bear. "He told me that it wouldn't be fair to Nyda and Winnie for me to know such a secret and to keep them out of it. And so for a year three girls have accepted your hospitality, your boundless generosity, while they schemed to outwit each other and to win the big prize."

"You, too?" he repeated sadly, but there was hope in his eyes as they gazed searchingly into hers.

(To Be Continued)

To be free of T. Q. Curtis and his agreement, and to go away with —— Romaine, is Billy's only thought. In the next chapter she summons Dale.

Lambs Lower, Hogs and Cattle Higher

Kansas City Stock Yards, June 14.—Following last week's 25 to 40 cent advance, cattle were quoted up an additional 10 to 15 cents yesterday in some spots more. Trade was active. Demand was larger than the supply. Butcher cattle shared the additional advance with the steers. Stockers and feeders were quoted strong. Hog prices were 15 to 25 cents higher. The offerings were cleaned up in the first two hours of the trading under an active demand from shippers. The top reached $9. Sheep and lambs were 25 to 50 cents lower. Western lambs made the top at $16.85.

Monday's Receipts.

Receipts Monday were 9,000 cattle, 8,000 hogs and 9,000 sheep compared with 11,000 cattle, 10,000 hogs and 6,000 sheep a week ago and 12,200 cattle, 12,350 hogs and 9,750 sheep a year ago.

Beef Cattle.

Choice yearling steers at $12; steers and heifers mixed up to $11 and short fed steers at $10 to $11 were the best classes of killing cattle offered today. They were quoted 15 to 25 cents higher than last week's close and 40 cents to 65 cents above a week ago. Grass fat steers at $7.75 to $8.75 were 15 cents higher. Killers were in the competition early and the supply of fat steers was short of their needs. Indications are that only moderate runs will be available for the next two weeks. cows and heifers were back to the high point of the past two weeks and in limited supply. Choice heifers are quoted up to $10.75 and choice heavy cows up to $9.25. Canner and cutter cows are bringing $4.50 to $5.75. Bulls are selling at $5.75 to $7.25 and veal calves $7.50 to $11.50.

Stockers And Feeders.

Demand for stockers and feeders remained active. Receipts were light and prices had a strong trend. The trade would have shown large volume had offerings been available.

Hogs.

Hog prices were up 15 to 25 cents Monday and 50 to 60 cents above the low point of the year, recorded on Wednesday of last week. The general market gives the appearance of being in a strange position and a further advance is expected. Today 140 to 240 pound grades brought $8.75 to $9; 240 to 260 pounds $8.65 to $8.85; 260 to 325 pounds $8.50 to $8.75; packing sows $7.25 to $8; stags $7 to $7.85; stock pigs and hogs $8.50 to $9.

Sheep and Lambs.

The sheep market is in a declining position. Monday quotations were off 50 cents to $1, compared with the high point of last week and 25 to 50 cents under last week's close. Western lambs sold today at $16.50 to $16.85. Native lambs $15.75 to $16.25; yearlings $12 to $12.75; wethers $7.75 to $8.50 and ewes, $5.50 to $6.50.

Horses and Mules.

Trade in horses and mules is quiet and will continue so far some time to come.

Largest Horse in the World Is Dead

Battle Creek, Neb., June 14.—Lubber, the largest horse in the world, owned by A. E. Ponton and sons here, is dead. The horse, which stood twenty one hands high and weighed 3,120 pounds, was 6 years old. His dam was a cross of Percheron and broncho and his sire was cross-bred Belgian and Shire. Both were of medium size.

Lubber grew up at Red Bird, Holt County. The horse had been exhibited throughout Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota. This season the Pontons had contracted with a show to travel through the middle west with him. At Rock Island, Ill., Lubber contracted pneumonia and died. A $5,000 insurance policy on him had expired a few days before.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, June 14.—Trading in wheat was quiet on the board of trade today, with prices holding generally around yesterday's figures. Scattered rains were not believed sufficient to delay harvest. The cash market was steady to unchanged.

Late profit taking caused liquidation of wheat, with prices declining 1 cent below the previous close.

Corn was higher early, reacted and then moved up, only to decline on sharp profit taking and closed ⅝ cent higher than yesterday's final figures. Weather was unsettled over the belt, with temperatures too low for proper growth. The cash market was ½ to 1 cent higher.

Oats made fair advances, commission buying was active and oats finished ⅛ to ½ cent higher, with the cash Provisions were a little higher.

LAMKIN TO BE STAR?

College President Is on Coach "Shorty" Lawrence's Team.—Smith Brothers Captain "Lozenges."

The first games of the intramural basketball tournament at the State Teachers College will be played late tomorrow afternoon in the College gymnasium. The first game of the tournament will be played at 4:15 o'clock tomorrow. It will be played between the Mules and the Pedagogs. The latter team is made up of faculty members of the school, and the game should prove most interesting. Coach H. Frank Lawrence is captain of the team. Donald Dowell is the Bulldog captain. Other members of his team are Rickard, Harr, Cox, and McPherron.

The Bears are led by Henry Iba, basketball star from Westminster College, who is enrolled at the College. His teammates are Carroll, Craig, Adair, Clemens, and Welch.

The Smith brothers make up the Lozenges. William Smith is captain of the team and his mates are J. Smith, D. Smith, L. Smith, L. P. Smith, and Roy cFrguson.

Acquittals Rare in Fish and Game Cases

Judges And Juries Awakening To Importance Of Protecting Wild Life, Commissioner Says.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 14.—Out of 110 arrests by the officers operating under the State Game and Fish Commission for May, only 7 acquittals are reported against 87 convictions, with 16 cases still pending. This speaks well for the game wardens but is more important as demonstrating the fact that judges and juries are awakening to the importance of enforcing the laws protective of wild life in Missouri, State Game and Fish Commissioner McCanse, declared.

Violation of the law requiring a license to hunt and fish led off with 37 arrests, that for the use of nets, traps and guns and fishing in closed season followed with 14 arrests, while illegal use of seines and nets resulted in the apprehension of 12 violators.

The balance of the arrests show the following: Use of explosives or poison, 6; illegal use of gigs and spears, 6; possession of game during closed season, 5; killing or found in possession of non-game birds, 3; taking fur animals out of season, 2; killing squirrel out of season, 2; illegal sale, storage or serving of game, 2; sale of prohibited species of fish, 2; the others were for single violation of other sections of the law, from taking fur animals without a license, to fishing too near a fish ladder.

Fines and costs in these convictions amounted to $958.85, the fines going to the school funds in the counties where the arrest took place.

Caddo Kinder underwent a tonsil operation at St. Francis Hospital yesterday morning.

Hats off! Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of color beneath the sky;
Hats off! The flag is passing by!

Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped ordered lines.
Hats off! The colors before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.

Sign of a nation, great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory, honor, all
Live in the colors to stand or fall.

Hats off; Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;
Hats off! The flag is passing by!

Football Still King of Sports in Valley

Basketball, However, Gains In Favor And In Several Schools Now Pays Its Own Way.

Lincoln, Neb., June 14.—Football is still king of sports in the Missouri valley, though basketball is gaining in favor, figures compiled by the United press indicate. Several schools report that for the first time in history basketball payed its own way.

A prosperous season was reported by the valley schools in general. Profits made by football overbalancing losses in track, wrestling, baseball and minor sports. Larger crowds saw valley football games the past season than ever before.

At Missouri football paid $40,000 profits, as it also did at Kansas U and K. Aggies. Nebraska topped the list with $50,000 while Oklahoma Aggies collected $20,000 in profits from the gridiron sport.

Nebraska and Missouri were the best drawing cards on the gridiron. When these two schools were playing at other schools crowds were larger than when other valley teams were there.

Basketball is a moneymaker at Kansas U, due no doubt to the six consecutive championships that the Jayhawkers have collected even though the school was handicapped in lack of seating space. Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas Aggies reported small profits for basketball for the first time in history.

Track is growing in importance and is drawing larger crowds but the long trips taken by teams cut down the profits.

Commenting on the past season coaches declared the year a great success not only from the financial viewpoint as from the general athletic view.

The general trend of sports was toward improvement and closer relations were established with other conferences. Intersectional football games have brought the attention of the country to the class of valley football and is doing much to build up the prestige of the valley. As a result more games are being scheduled with eleven from all sections of the country.

Notable among the achievements this season was the rule adopted agreeing not to scout opposition teams in valley games which not only reduces scouting expenses but gives a more sportsmanship like aspect to the conflicts according to Athletic directors.
